The price of tickets, 50 and 35, cents is lower than ever before for this entertainment, but the management trust that an unusually large sale, for a town this size, will tollow. It is expected that a special train will be run from Lyndonville and Wells

A Patriotic Service.

The evening service at the North a patriotic service and all the speakers advanced ideas along these lines. After a few remarks by the pastor deprecating the gradual non observance of the day and a criticism that the day should be mixed up with Good Friday, Rev. G. C. Waterman spoke of the real meaning of the day and its historical significance. -Rickaby & Co. have sold the fine Judge Walter P. Smith followed with an address upon some of our national perils. He mentioned irrestrictive immigration the continual conflict between organized capital and organized labor and jingoism. The last address was by Judge Henry C. Ide and was a masterly exposition of international law as relating to President McKinley's waiting attitude in the present crisis.

Not a Candidate.

It looks now as though the latter would succeed himself without any great EASTER AT THE CHURCHES.

Hail to Him who conquered death, Hail the Victor o'er the grave. Hail to Him whose living breath, Wakes the life in man, to save.

Loving followers lost all hope When entombed their Master slept; Satan's hosts in boasts awoke As the soldiers' watch was set.

Bars unstopped, blind eyes restored. Lives reclaimed from death's dark reign, Heeded not the Healer's word, Fear ye not, I rise again.

Kingly power asserts its might. Death yields up its haughty sway, Christ has enced darkest night, Glorious light of Baster day. Christ is risen, the song we sing, Pirst fruits of mankind redeemed, Token of our life in Him. Risen with Christ, our joy supreme.

At the South Church.

Boston, Mass., Apr. 2, 1898.

SAMUEL N. BROWN

The music here was a most prominent feature of the service both in the morning and evening. The morning service opener with an organ, piano and violin prelude, given by B. Frank Harris, Miss Isabel M. Paddock and J. D. Partringe. The chorus choir sang one of Buck's Te Deums and as a closing piece Morgan's "Hallelujah." Mrs. Davis sang the offertory solo. The pulpit decorations, while not elaborate, were very effective and consisted of palms and potted Easter lilies. The pastor took his text from Rev. xix: 12, 'On His head were many illustrated by the man who bought a of ideal manhood; the crown of sympathy; the crown of suffering; thecrown of conquest. In closing he spoke of the imposing coronation which John saw, the coronation of Christ by the Father which are given in one of John's revela-

The evening meeting was a praise service following out the programme given in last week's paper. Besides the chorus choir and organ the Orchestral club added to the musical service and solo by Mrs. Charles E. Peck. Between the musical portions of the programme there were brief remarks or scripture reading by the pastor.

At Grace Methodist Church. Easter services were largely attended last Sunday, the congregation in the evening overflowing the pews and requiring the addition of setters and chairs. On the platform and choir rail were Easter lilies, palms and potted plants, which were tastetully arranged. The sermon by the pastor was from Job xiv: 14 their Easter Sale at Pythian Hall on and John xiv: 19. The music by the vice calling forth much tavorable comand candy were offered for sale, and a ment. In the evening the Sunday school gave one of their best concerts, the music and recitations being in harmony with the thought of the day. Great credit is due Mrs. J. A. Marshall and her band of children. Superintendent Bailey pre-

At the Baptist Church.

The pastor took his text in the morning from 1 Cor. xv: 57. Among other things he said, these triumphant words have the association of funeral gloom, but they should expel the gloom with heavenly glory. Easter is the world's most wonderful anniversary, recalling the day when one body made the earth a stage in triumphal progress. It is the glorious prophecy of our victory over death and sin. Christ's entire earthly life was for others. His resurrection was above all else for the human race. He might have left his scarred hands to be kept by the Roman scal. They were raised in glory to testify to our victory over death. Christ's resurrection pledges the Christian's resurrection.

The evening concert was heartily enjoyed by a large congregation. platform was tastefully decorated. The clear sweet voices of the tiniest children rang out in messages of sacred joy. The choir and the children sang appropriate music with spirit. A violin trio by Misses Wellfoot, Annie and Josie Peck gave special pleasure. At St. Andrew's Church.

The first service of the day was a celebration of the holy communion at 6 o'clock a. m. At 10.30 came the morning prayer and celebration of the holy communion. The text at this service was from St. John xx: 16. "Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She saith unto him, Raboni; which is to say, Master." The children's service was held at 5 p. m. Carols were sur g by the children and a brief address was given by Rev. Mr. Mill. Colored Easter eggs were distributed to the Sunday school scholars and prizes were awarded to those who had saved more than $1 in their pyramids during Lent. All the services were very well attended and the church was very simply decorated with palms, Easter lilies, tulips and narcissus.

The principal musical selection was the rendition of the anthem "Why seek ye the living among the dead," at both the morning and evening service.

At St. Aloysius Church. Here the Easter holidays were fittingly celebrated. The elaborate and imposing ceremonies of the church were carried out as fully as is possible in the limited quarters which the congregation occupies, while awaiting the completion of the new church on Main street. There was a High Mass on Holy Thursday morning, and on Fast Day the usual solemn and impressive service of Good Friday was held. There was High Mass on Holy Saturday and on Easter Sunday two services in the morning and vespers in the afternoon. The altar was profusely decorated with plants and cut flowers, and illuminated with candles The musical exercises were elaborate and finely rendered and varied by several pleasing solos.

The Free Baptist Church. An excellent Easter concert was given at the Free Baptist church on Sunday evening, under the direction of David M. Badger, the efficient superintendent of the Sunday school. The choir, by request, sung the anthem, "Why wrepest thou?" by C. H. Gabriel. Prayer was Medley, "Just Out," offered by the pas or. Recitations were given by Laura Fenno, Frank Keyes, Hugh Spaulding, Miss Myrtie St. John, Walter Farr. Pearl Davis, Blanche Keves, Lillian Henderson, Bernice Holder, John Farnham, Blanche Spalding, Arthur Little, Lura Farnham. Hattie Belville and Mamie Keyes. Ella Stevenson and Gladys Davis sang a duet very nicely. Carols were sung by Laura Fenno and Florence Johnson, and by Blanche and Mamie Keyes. Six young ladies from Mrs. B. W. Spaulding's class sang Chad-wick's fine carol, "Hail, all hail!" with taste and spirit. Mrs. Badger's class gave a pretty exercise on "Easter Lilies." The pastor, Rev. G. C. Waterman, gave a short address on Easter customs and the lessons of the day. Much credit is due to Miss Jennie Stevenson for the excellent singing by the children. The church was decorated with palms, plants in bloom and cut flowers.

At the North Church. The floral display here was considered he finest ever seen in the church. Messrs. Borland and Gentry from Underclyffe and Pinehurst conservatories had so arranged the flowers and potted plants that only the upper part of the pulpil could be seen. The flowers consisted of a profusion of Easter lilies, azaleas, rare orchids and palms. Directly under the pulpit was a beautiful wreath in memory of the late Miss Adelaide M. Ide. The musical part of the service was of a high order and consisted of three anthems by the double quartette choir and a hymn with the armony by Buck. The pastor preached strong sermon on the resurrection, showing how both science and religion confirm the resurrection and how it was a preparation for the life beyond. In the evening about a dozen classes of the Sunday school contributed a varied Almighty, with all the surroundings and interesting programme which was much enjoyed by a large audience.

> At the Church Notre Dames des Victoires. Gounod's Bourdalaise Credo was sung here at the morning service and the sooists took their parts with great excelence. The altar was profusely decorated with flowers and there was an unusually large attendance at all the services Vespers were sung at 4 o'clock, and during benediction Gounod's Regina Coeli. At the Church of the Messiah. The pulpit was prettily decorated with cut flowers and baskets of flowers and the musical programme as given in last week's paper was carried out, the pastor, Rev. H. H. Hoyt, preaching an Easter sermon. In the evening the Easter concert was given. The children all did finely and the con cert reflected great credit on Miss Laura Jenness who had charge of the drilling of
